Temple Sisterhood To Mark Chanukah At Regular Meeting

Members of the Federation of Women's Clubs and the Federation of Jewish Women's Clubs have been invited to attend a Chanukah program arranged by the Temple Sisterhood of Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation. The program is to be presented at the group's regular meeting, set for 2:15 p. m. Monday in the Temple, Tenth and Delaware Sts.

Mrs. Arthur Fairbanks, president, will preside. Mrs. Harry B. Jacobs is program chairman.

A reading of Justice Louis D. Brandeis' "The Victory of the Spirit," will be given by Mrs. H. Benjamin Marks, and Mrs. Jay C. Kahn will light the Chanukah candles and offer prayer.

A talk on "Chanukah," by Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt, will be followed by the Temple Quartette's singing of Handel's oratoria, "Judas Macabeus." The quartette, made up of Jane Johnson Burroughs, soprano; Gladys Blake, contralto; Farrel Scott, tenor, and C. Edmund Jarvis, baritone, will be directed and accompanied on the organ by Dorothy Knight Greene.

Commentaries by Mrs. Jacobs will conclude the program, which will be followed by a social hour and tea. The hospitality committee is headed by Mrs. Kahn, chairman, and Mrs. J. B. Kaufman, co-chairman. Mrs. Bailey Brown and Mrs. M. M. Alexander will pour.

Shulamith Schwartz To Speak At Services

Shulamith Schwartz, former Junior Hadassah president, now living in Palestine, will speak at Hadassah Sabbath services at Beth El Friday night.

Hostesses for the service include Mrs. Ed Rosenberg, Mrs. Abe Unger, Mrs. Sam Abels, Mrs. I. Abstone, Mrs. H. Alpert, Mrs. D. Baer, Mrs. R. Domont, Mrs. David Adeff.

Also Mrs. M. Forman, Mrs. Ed Dayan, Mrs. Bernard Cohen, Mrs. Harry Cohen, Mrs. Clarence Budd, Mrs. Harry Escol, Mrs. J. E. Budd, Mrs. Herman Chalfie and Mrs. David Cohen.

The entire service, which is in honor of Henrietta Szold, will be conducted by Hadassah members.

Oneg Shabbat

All Junior Hadassah and business and professional groups are invited to attend the Oneg Shabbat which will be held at the home of Miss Hannah Leah Miller, 3920 North Pennsylvania street, at 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

Mildred Kraft will give a biography of Philip M. Raskin, the Jewish poet, and Goldie Dichner will read several of his Chanuka poems. Frieda Brill will give some current events. There will be group singing and then the entire group will enter into a discussion with Miss Shulamuth Schwartz, who will be guest that afternoon.

Refugee Committee Issues Job Appeal

Store owners, and other employers who have need for extra help during the Christmas season are urged to consider the possibility of employing refugees for such available openings.

In an interview with Mr. L. L. Goodman, who is the Chairman of the Employment Committee of the Indianapolis Refugee Committee, the urgent need for jobs was pointed out. There are at this time about seven refugees who are unemployed, and who are able and willing to accept almost any type of employment—whether it be permanent or temporary, Mr. Goodman said. "During this season of the year," he added, "there surely must be openings for extra Christmas help which would absorb these men and women."

Mr Goodman pointed out that for the most part these people are experienced in department store work and make very good workers in the field of merchandising.

"One thing I wish to make very emphatic, however," said Mr. Goodman, "under no circumstances is a present employee to be released in order to create an opening for a refugee. This has been the cardinal principal of the Employment Committee from its inception."

Sol Blumenthal, employment secretary or Mrs. Helen Fichman, can always be reached at LIncoln 6513, and are ready and anxious to cooperate in every way in assisting employment.

Charry Forms Zionist District at Kokomo

Rabbi Elias Charry addressed the Sisterhood of the Kokomo Temple last Tuesday afternoon, and in the evening organized a Zionist district in that city. A 100 per cent enrollment is reported, with two members from Peru, Ind., and one from Rochester, Ind., joining this group. Sidney Gavirts and Lou Jaeger are temporary secretaries.

NAMED ORATOR

SOUTH BEND—Walter Stein, member of the South Bend branch of Aleph Zadek Aleph, has been chosen orator for a regional convention of the order in Columbus, O., Dec. 24 to 26.

Completed Program For Hebrew Teachers Convention Is Given

Completed program for the Hebrew School teachers' convention here next week was announced today.

The executive committee will meet at Kirshbaum Center Thursday afternoon, Dec. 14, with the first session of the convention that evening. The second session will be held Friday morning at 10:30. Both of these sessions will be devoted to the business of the federation, appointments and reports of committees, and the message by Solomon Marenof, president of the National Federation of Hebrew Teachers, as well as a message by A. Elazar, president of the Midwest Federation.

The third session will be a joint Teachers' Federation and the membership of the National Council for Jewish Education.

Friday at 6 p. m., the delegates and local friends of Jewish education will dine in the vestry rooms of Beth El Temple. Immediately following the dinner the delegates and their friends will attend services at the various temples. Dr. A. L. Eisenberg, director of the Bureau of Jewish Education in Cincinnati, will be the speaker at the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation. Dr. Leo L. Honor, director of the Board of Jewish Education in Chicago, will be the speaker at Beth El Temple.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30, the delegates will be guests of the Jewish Educational Auxiliary at an oneg shabbat at Beth El Temple, at which time Rabbi Samuel Blumenthal, registrar of the College of Jewish Studies in Chicago, will speak on "Whither Jewish Education?"

The final session, a business meeting, will be held Saturday at 8 p. m.

Original Chanukah Play Is Brotherhood Feature

An original play, "The Living Menorah," by Max Lindt, a recent immigrant from Vienna, will be the feature of the I. H. C. Brotherhood Chanukah meeting at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday, Dec. 13, at the temple.

Chanukah lights will be kindled by Cantor A. Portnov, and Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt will speak. The Kirshbaum Players, including Isadore Bach, Mrs. Mortimer Present, Robert Jaeger, Bernard Snyder and two children, Beverly Selig and Gerhart Samuel, will present the play. Refreshments and a social hour will follow the meeting.

The Brotherhood Study Group will meet at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 12, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jaffe, 5123 College avenue. Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt will lead the discussion on "A Bird's-eye View of Jewish History."

Miss Hannah Leah Miller will have as her week-end guest, Miss Ida Clayman of Dayton, Ohio, for whom she will entertain informally at her home Sunday afternoon.

Hadassah, Speaker

Mrs. Lilian T. Mowrer Subs At Center Forum

The Indianapolis Open Forum will present Lilian T. Mowrer as its speaker Sunday night, Dec. 10, it was announced today by Mrs. Jack A. Goodman, Chairman of the Forum Committee.

Mrs. Mowrer, who is author of "Journalist's Wife," will appear in place of Michael Williams, originally scheduled, who could not come because of illness.

A Journalist's Wife Looks at Hitler's War" is the subject chosen by the woman who until recently was by the side of her husband, Edgar Ansel Mowrer, who is one of the world's best known foreign correspondents, and who today is with the French and British armies in the field writing for The Chicago Daily News and a string of other newspapers from coast to coast. The talk will be given at 8:15 o'clock Sunday evening, December 10, at Kirshbaum Center, and is open to the public.

Although overshadowed by the fame of her husband, whose book "Germany Turns the Clock Back" was a Pulitzer prize winner, Mrs. Mowrer is well known and capable newspaper woman in her own right with years of experience writing dispatches for American newspapers.

Chanukah Play Beth El Sisterhood Feature

"Pictures Out of the Past," a Chanukah play presented by the children of the Sunday school, will be the feature of the Beth El Sisterhood meeting at 2 p. m. Monday, Dec. 11, at Beth El Temple. The cast includes Sidney Maurer, Lazar Frisch, Marian Miller, Mickey Maurer, Marjorie Helman, Bobby Rose, Libby Maurer, Mildred Brenner, Roseann Yaver, Viva Gallin, Sue Lipp, Harold Granofsky, Joan Smulyan, Richard Rappaport, Stanley Rosenberg, Allen Halpern and Jerry Epstein.

Beverly Selig assisted in directing the play. Mrs. Harry Cohen will give the opening prayer, and piano selections by Irving Lee Sablosky will complete the program. A social hour will follow.

Expect 300 To Attend Sr. Hadassah Thrift Luncheon Wednesday

With final plans completed, over three hundred women are expected to attend the second annual Hadassah Thrift Luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday, Dec. 13, in Block's auditorium.

Principal speaker will be Mrs. Oscar Bender of Philadelphia, national board member.

The program will open with invocation by Mrs. Elias Charry, followed by a message of greeting from Mrs. S. A. Silberman, president. Mrs. Sam Wolf and Mrs. Edward Dayan will then conduct a candlelighting ceremony, for which Mrs. Stanley Levinson will be pianist and Joe Lewis, organist.

After the talk by Mrs. Bender, the program will close with a group of Palestinian songs by members of the Hatikva Young Judaea Club. Taking part will be Hadassah Frisch, Sylvia Miller, Martha Mae Frisch, Nina Gallin, Carolyn Unger, Toba Epstein, Sonia Talesnick and Marjorie Helman. Lillian Bluestein will be at the piano.

Members assisting in the luncheon include Miss Emma Gelman, general chairman; Mrs. L. L. Goodman, chairman of the penny luncheon; Mrs. Sam Wolf and Mrs. Edward Dayan, co-chairmen of child welfare; Mrs. Edward Rosenberg, chairman of hospitality; with Mrs. Abe Unger, Mrs. Sam Schwartz and Mrs. Ben Shalansky, vice chairmen. Mrs. Philip Falender is program chairman and Mrs. Marcus Cohen is in charge of decorations.

Movie On Program For Beth El Dinner

Beth El Temple will hold its annual Chanukah dinner at 6:15 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 10, at the synagogue.

In charge of arrangements is Mrs. David Hollander as chairman assisted by Mrs. Alex Rabin and Mrs. David Dobrowitz. Aaron Unger, entertainment chairman, has arranged for the showing of the Warner Brothers picture, "Sons of Liberty," starring Claude Rains, as the feature of the evening.

Presentation of gifts to the Sisterhood, Men's Club and the congregation will complete the program.

S. A. M. Refugee Student Arrives On I. U. Campus

BLOOMINGTON—Arrival of Max Meyer, refugee student from Berlin, Germany, was announced by S. A. M. Fraternity here. He is a cousin of Henri Remak who, since his arrival here a few years ago, has risen to a position of prominence on the I. U. faculty.

Max is one of the many refugee students being brought over to the United States by Sigma Alpha Mu. Due to the outbreak of the war, he was unable to secure transportation until Nov. 15. He hoped to be in Bloomington just after Thanksgiving vacation, but the ship on which he sailed had to wait three days off the English coast, owing to the danger of being hit by mines.

Muncie's Benjamin V. Cohen

Unknown to most Indianians is the fact that Benjamin V. Cohen, member of the famous Corcoran-Cohen team of New Deal fame, is a native of Muncie where he spent his boyhood. The following clipping from the "Capital Parade" by Joseph Alsop and Robert Kintner, was sent to The Post by William F. Freund, of Muncie, his brother-in-law.

MORE has been said, and less is known about Benjamin V. Cohen than any other figure of the New Deal. His more familiar partner, the bounding, omnipresent, perpetually telephonic Thomas Gardiner Corcoran, is the front man of the Corcoran-Cohen team. Cohen remains a dim presence, hidden away in a quiet office at the interior department, presumably hatching revolutions or worse.

Actually, Cohen sadly fails to live up to his somewhat satanic reputation. In outward appearance, he is an exceedingly untidy man in early middle age, with a somewhat long face, thick spectacles, and the expression of vague but vast kindness which extreme shortsightedness often confers. In his case the expression is not deception. His manner inevitably suggests the absent-minded professor, and all his traits point to one obvious fact—that, if Corcoran were not on hand to supply contacts with the busy world, Cohen would withdraw into an almost wholly contemplative life.

His habits may be inferred from his appearance. He lives in a quiet Washington apartment, rising early, working late at his office, seeing none but a few intimates, taking time off only for an occasional movie. What real resting he does comes over the week-ends when he goes to New York, to an apartment hideaway where he has his books and can spend a day and a half quietly reading and thinking.

Thinker and Doer

Cohen is in fact an intellectual—a pure idea man. In the Corcoran-Cohen team, his part is chiefly to do the thinking, and in intellectual matters he tends to dominate Corcoran despite Corcoran's excellent mind, just as Corcoran tends to dominate Cohen in all matters relating to practical action.

It is not the intention here to pass on the goodness or badness of Cohen's ideas. They may, as many say be leading the country straight to ruin. They may, as the New Dealers seem to hope, be blueprints for Utopia. Or they may be common-or-garden political ideas, as impermanent and essentially undisturbing and unexciting as all the hundreds of others of political ideas which have prevailed and been forgotten in Washington. The important thing is that Cohen, the thinker, and Corcoran, the doer, form a perfect team for the President's purposes. Cohen's office now serves as a sort of clearing house for all the economists of the New Deal, just as Corcoran's does for many of the administrative officials. For example, Cohen, more than any other man, is responsible for the current place of the spending theory as a cardinal point of New Deal doctrine.

He is also the New Deal's finest legal draftsman. The securities and exchange acts, the public utilities holding company act, the original wage-hour bill and many other great measures have been partly his handiwork. Of the Cohen-drafted measures, a man who is the former president of a great utilities system and was top man in his class at Harvard law school remarked admiringly, "from a technical, legal standpoint, the laws drafted by Ben Cohen have never been equaled in brilliant workmanship." An even more impressive tribute was paid by an exasperated utilities lawyer, who said, "Cohen does the damndest work. Every time you think you've got a loophole, you find it covered in the next sentence."

His Story

His story is simple. He was born in 1894, in Muncie, Indiana, (Continued on page 15)

Madison's Leading Citizen

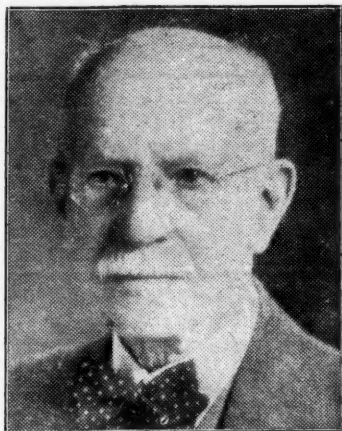

Marcus R. Sulzer dies at ripe old age of 79, after full life of service to community. Was District President of B'nai B'rith and last surviving trustee of the Madison synagogue.

By JOHN B. NIESSE
Editor Madison Herald

MARCUS RAPHAEL SULZER, one of the outstanding and beloved citizens of Madison, passed to his reward early Sunday morning, September 24, 1939, at the King's Daughters Hospital in Madison, Ind., aged 79 years.

Mr. Sulzer was born and spent his entire useful life in Madison. He was a son of the late Raphael and Rachel Sulzer, substantial citizens of Madison. He was educated in the Madison public schools, following which he took up the study of law. He began the practice of law when a young man and devoted many years of life to this profession.

MARCUS R. SULZER

B'rith, the district territory covering eight states. He was the last surviving member of the Jewish Synagogue trustees of Madison. His brother, Louis Sulzer, and Isaac L. Stern, who were the other members of the board of trustees, preceded him in death several years ago. During the early days of Madison there were many citizens of Mr. Sulzer's faith living here, and the Sulzer family was always active in their church affiliations.

Early in life Mr. Sulzer became interested in politics. He was an ardent Republican worker and during his lifetime held numerous offices and won nominations that gave him wide acquaintance throughout the state and nation.

Held Many Offices

Years ago Mr. Sulzer served ably as prosecuting attorney in Jefferson county. He later was a representative in the state legislature during the term of Governor Claude Matthews. Afterwards he was the party's nominee for Secretary of State. In 1896 Mr. Sulzer was the Republican candidate for Congress in this district and was defeated by a small majority, although the district is largely Democratic.

He also served as county attorney.

Mr. Sulzer was signally honored during the administration of President Benjamin Harrison when he was appointed by the President as United States Consul to Liege, Belgium. Mr. Sulzer declined to accept the appointment, due to the advanced age of his father.

Heads Large Firm

For two terms Mr. Sulzer served as local postmaster. He was appointed to this office during the administration of President Theodore Roosevelt and again during the Taft administration. He was twice mayor of Madison, serving his first term from 1926 to 1929 inclusive and again from 1935 until 1939.

Following the death of his brother, Louis Sulzer, in 1916, Mr. Sulzer assumed management of the Sulzer Brothers Crude Drug Company, at one time said to have been the largest business of its kind in the world. He conducted this business continuously until his health failed a few months before his death.

Before his political activities,

Mr. Sulzer was deeply interested in civic and fraternal affairs in his home city. He was for many years a director of the Chamber of Commerce and served as its president for several terms. He was a member of Madison Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and was a member of the building committee when the present Pythian building in Madison was erected some years ago. Mr. Sulzer also was one of the group that was instrumental in building the King's Daughters Hospital in Madison. He was a member of the former Human Welfare League in this city until it was disbanded and was always active in charitable works. He was also a member of the local Odd Fellows Lodge and an honorary member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Ardent Madison Booster

In all of his political affiliations, Mr. Sulzer always took a keen interest and devoted much time in the discharge of his public duties. That he was an excellent public official was demonstrated by the many times he was called upon by his party to occupy positions of responsibility and trust. He was an ardent booster for his home city and did much to bring the present large quota of tourists to Madison.

A fluent and forceful after dinner speaker, Mr. Sulzer seldom made a public address in which he failed to say something in the way of a toast to his home town and its people, whom he loved. He also was deeply interested in the Ohio river as a medium of transportation and for some time was connected with the Ohio Valley Improvement Association. He possessed one of the

It is impossible to state in formal phrase the many noble qualities that made up Mr. Sulzer's splendid manhood, kindness, generosity, a loving disposition and an engaging personality. He had no malice in his heart toward any man, no envy in his thoughts, no treason in his dealing with his fellowmen. He was happy when helping others and he had an unfailing charity toward all. The world is better off for his having lived in it.

Mr. Sulzer is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Mabel Griffith of Vevay, and one son, Professor Elmer G. Sulzer, teacher in the University of Kentucky and also director of the university band in Lexington.

Kadimah To Conduct Friday Night Services

SOUTH BEND—The Kadimah will conduct religious services Friday night in Sinai synagogue. Harry Sheolnik and Miss Naomi Katz will read English and Hebrew services, respectively, and Rabbi Maurice Parzen, spiritual leader of the synagogue, will preach.

The organization has obtained the use of the Thomas Jefferson school gymnasium for use of its members and friends on Thursday nights, with John Berger to direct activities. Plans are being discussed for a Kadimah basketball league. Saturday night the league will hold a candlelight service in the home of Mr. Sheolnik, 400 East Milton street.

Mamre Adds 11 Members

SOUTH BEND—Members of Mamre Lodge of M'nai B'rith welcomed 11 new members at the lodge's regular meeting, held on Wednesday night at the Hebrew Institute. The new members are Ben Medow, Nate Altman, Robert Weissner, Joe Fischhoff, Max Gross, Dr. E. J. Gross, Louis Ziker, David R. Bain, Max Silver, Dr. A. Lemontree, and Reuben From.

Officers to serve during the coming year were nominated in anticipation of the approaching election. The lodge's Thanksgiving ball was so successful that officers reported the ticket sale for the 1940 affair is nearing the "sell-out" point.

Sears, Marshal Field And Kresge's Figure In Nazi Toy Shipment

Special
NEW YORK—"Are American children to play so that Hitler's soldiers may fight?" was the question posed by a spokesman for the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, when he revealed that thousands of tons of German toys had been imported by United States merchants during the past two weeks.

German industrialists are avoiding the Allied blockade by shipping their merchandise through neutral ports. On Oct. 9, the Dutch freighter Boschijk of the Holland-American line docked in Hoboken with a shipment of 1,200 tons of toys and Christmas ornaments destined for sale in New York stores, continued the league's spokesman.

The ports of Philadelphia and Baltimore have also received large quantities of Nazi-Xmas merchandise from Holland via boats of the Black Diamond Line.

"Since the advent of Hitler's regime in Germany the American public has evidenced its distaste for Nazi-made products. As a result many new American industries have been established in order to replace those products formerly imported from Germany. Christmas tree ornaments are now being manufactured in the United States and the toy industry has grown tremendously as a result of the general boycott of these imported goods. However, these American industries will suffer if they do not receive the cooperation of our merchants," concluded the League's spokesman.

The names of those firms which imported shipments of toys and ornaments from Germany during the past few weeks, is listed as follows by the Anti-Nazi League: Schall & Co., 6 cases of toys; F. Kolb, 3 cartons of toys; Marshall Field and Co., 13 cases of Xmas ornaments, 20 cases of toys; Straus Eckhardt, 17 cases of Xmas ornaments, 950 cartons of toys; George Borgfeldt, 2 cases of toys,

1 case of Xmas ornaments; J. D. Smith, 560 cartons of Xmas ornaments. (Continued on page 15)

88 Out of Every 100

This is a comprehensive study of the Jewish Education Association, prepared after intensive research. It shows every phase of J. E. A. work, and gives a comprehensive survey of the Jewish education system in the city since 1911.

By GABRIEL COHEN

THE big bad wolf of Jewish education in the United States is the almost insurmountable problem of attendance, and in this respect the Indianapolis Jewish Education Association is no exception.

Figures made available by Meyer Gallin, head of the J. E. A., and H. L. Harshman, superintendent of the city schools, show that out of every hundred Jewish children attending the city's grade schools, only twelve are at present attending either the J. E. A.'s two schools. Mr. Harshman estimates that there are 1,800 Jewish children in the city's grade schools, and compared with the 228 attending the Neustadt Talmud Torah and the Kirshbaum branch, only about 12 per cent of Jewish boys and girls up to 13 years of age are receiving any regular Jewish education today.

On this point, Mr. Gallin maintains that Mr. Harshman's figure for the Jewish school population is exaggerated, and approximates the number of Jewish public school children at about 1,400. Using this figure, the percentage of Jewish children attending the J. E. A.'s schools rises to 16. It is also pointed out that of the 84 or 88 per cent who do not at present attend the J. E. A. schools, the majority of them, to use Mr. Gallin's words, have at one time or another attended either the Northside or the Southside school.

The complete attendance table from 1928 until today is shown below. The Southside school is in the second column and the Kirshbaum school is shown in the third column.

1938	114	86	200
1939	(figs. not yet available)

An analysis of the table shows several interesting points. In the first place, because of the general trend from the Southside to the Northside, attendance at the Neustadt School has fallen from a high of 236 in 1929 to a low of 114 in 1938. Even without the table, almost any member of the community could have foretold the trend. But the interesting factor is that, despite this movement, the enrollment in the Kirshbaum School has not increased at all. In 1928 and 1929, the Kirshbaum School enrollment was 85 and 86, respectively, while in 1937 and 1938 the enrollment was almost the same, 84 and 86, respectively.

Explanation Offered

One explanation offered by Mr. Gallin for the drop in total enrollment was the introduction in 1930 of tuition for children whose parents could afford to pay. Registration fell from 324 in 1929 to 278 in 1930 and 254 in 1931. It should be understood here that those pupils whose parents cannot afford to pay are still enrolled at either of the two schools, and even in cases where the J. E. A. feels the parents can afford to pay and won't, the children are not forced to leave the schools. But in any event, the tuition fee seems to be a big deterrent. When parents who can afford to pay are asked to pay tuition, in too many cases they decide that instruction is not that important, and remove the child from school, and although later they are told that they can send their child back free of any charge, they refuse to do so.

Amounts received from tuition are shown by the following table:

1931-32	988.62
1932-33	962.20
1933-34	1,082.55
1934-35	1,059.78
1935-36	929.68
1936-37	1,021.90
1937-38	1,100.00
1938-39	997.70

BLOOMINGTON — Culminating the dream, hopes and ambitions of many years, Sigma Alpha Mu will build a new chapter house within the next two years. The new house, in all probability, will be completed by the summer of 1941, enabling the large roster of S. A. M.'s to occupy more suitable quarters. Estimated expenditures on the house and the furnishings will approach $50,000.

Active alumni group participating in the selection of a building site for the new home consists of Frates Sam Kroot and Theodore Dann of Indianapolis, Sol Schwartz of Bloomington and Julian Glazer of Anderson.

William Meyers Leads B'nai B'rith Bowlers

William Meyers, with a three-game high total of 569, led the bowlers in the B'nai B'rith League last Sunday morning.

The Executives, one of the new teams, swept their three-game series with the Menorahs, as did the Presidents in their series with the Trustees. The Monitors won two games out of three in their series with the A. Z. A.'s.

Among visitors to Chicago, Ill. this week-end are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goldstein, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Goldman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sacks, Mrs. Mary Albert and Mr. and Mrs. Abe Goldstein who are attending their cousin's wedding there.

Beatrice Julian Weds Charles Robert Cohn

Mr. and Mrs. William Julian announce the marriage of their daughter Beatrice Julian, to Charles Robert Cohn, son of Mrs. Marcus Cohn and the late Marcus Cohn of Northampton, Mass. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Morris Feuerlicht Thursday, Nov. 30 at the Broadmoor Country Club.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory velvet with a bodice of rose point lace, and a veil of tulle falling from a cap of rose point lace. She carried her mother's bible with streamers of white satin ribbon tied with bavaria. Mrs. Abner Rednor, of Trenton, N. J. was her sister's only attendant and Simon Cohn of Boston, Mass. was his brother's best man. The bride's mother wore a dinner dress of black with a corsage of orchids, while the groom's mother wore black velvet and a corsage of orchids. A family dinner followed the ceremony.

NO man is free who is not master of himself.—Epictetus.

parents are actually without the means to pay, the records show. The other parents pay from $50 a year down to the smallest sum.

Although Mr. Gallin did not express himself on this point, it must be obvious that if the enrollment could be brought back to the 324 all-time high, or even near it, it would be wise for the community to remove the tuition fee again.

The J. E. A. has received from the community since 1925 varying amounts, both in the years when it conducted its own drive and in the years when it was part of the Jewish Welfare Fund. The large table above shows exactly how much the J. E. A. received each year.

In connection with the large table it should be noted that in years in which the Jewish Welfare Fund dropped far below its regular allocation, the operating expense of the J. E. A. was not lowered, but instead the J. E. A. showed a large deficit, which actually meant that the teachers received only part of their salaries. The teachers' salaries, too, were cut 25 per cent, but these have been restored in every case, except that of Mr. Gallin. Thus, in 1932-33, the J. W. F. gave the J. E. A. only $8,500, a $5,000 drop from the $13,500 of the previous year. For that year the total income, including all sources, of the J. E. A. was only $10,297.40, yet the total expenses were $14,015.26. The next year the J. E. A. received only $7,500 from the J. W. F. That year its total income was $10,413.83 and its total expenses $12,032.50.

History Given

The J. E. A. was organized in 1925, 14 years after Rabbi I. E. Neustadt organized the city's first Hebrew School. Rabbi Neustadt, who died in 1913, brought Louis Hurwich, a Columbia University graduate, to Indianapolis as the first superintendent, and Bernard Isaacs, who is now superintendent of the Detroit Hebrew Schools, as teacher. At that time, through Rabbi Neustadt's efforts, Indianapolis was paying the highest salaries for Hebrew School teachers of any city in the United States, and was able to secure the best available instructors.

After Rabbi Neustadt's death, the United Hebrew Schools was organized in 1913. Without real leadership (the teachers often received more salary than did Rabbi Neustadt), the situation grew steadily more desperate, until in 1925, under the aegis of George Rabinoff, the system was once again brought under one head, and for the first time a Northside branch was opened, this one at the Central Hebrew Congregation.

Moving spirits behind the school were the late Isaac Marks, who until his death was president of the J. E. A.; Louis Sakowitz, Mrs. R. Domont, Julius Falender, the late Charles Medias, Samuel Frommer, Henry Greenberg, H. T. Cohen, and many others.

The first auditor's report for the J. E. A. was interesting in many respects.

Until 1927, the Jewish Education Association conducted its own drive. For three years, as is shown in the large table, more than $12,000 was raised every year. But in 1928, upon the organization of the Jewish Welfare Fund, the J. E. A. (Continued on Page 12)

Franklin P. Adams Tells of Jew Who Tried To Use Label of International Banker

For a long time, before Father Coughlin began taking correspondence lessons from the Berlin Conservatory for Jew-Baiting, I was a happy man. I rejoiced in my struggle to put a loaf of bread and a hunk of beef on my table each night, and I was proud of the wife I had taken unto me and our three children. But then Father Coughlin received his diploma, and discovered how to make Bunds and Influence People. My life has never since been the same.

One Sunday afternoon, after the last inverted r's had fallen like thick petals from the lips of the Little Flower of the Church, I called to my wife, "Lena," I said, "bring me my money bags from under the bed. I'm an International Jewish Banker."

My wife placed a worried hand on my head. "What's the matter, Louis, you're not feeling well?"

I pushed her away. "Sure, I'm feeling well. I'm fine. Do like I tell you. Bring me my money bags."

"Money bags he wants. Stop listening to the crazy radio, and take a little walk for yourself, Louis, you'll feel better. Tomorrow is plenty of time to worry about money when you see how much work there is for you in the shop"

I walked into the bedroom, and looked under the bed. My wife was right. There were no money bags there. But that didn't matter. We Jewish International Bankers didn't have to have cash. We dealt in credits. Millions of dollars passed through our hands, and we didn't have to touch a penny of it.

I put on my five year old coat and my three year old hat, and went out for a walk. I moved in a warm, substantial glow. It was good to be an International Banker. I fished out a half of one of my two-for-a-nickel cigars, but I couldn't find a match. So I walked up to a man who was standing on a corner. I could feel him looking me over as I came up to him, and before I could open my mouth, he said, "Sorry Mister, but I haven't got anything. I'm pretty broke myself."

I stood there dumbfounded. In a second I recovered. "Broke," I shouted. "Who's broke? You talk that way to an International Banker?"

He laughed me away from him, and for a moment I began to doubt the Detroit Priest. Maybe I wasn't an International Banker. But what else could I be? And then I remembered, an Atheistic Jew, a Communist. That was it. That's what I was. I hadn't been to the synagogue since the last Day of Atonement. So I ran all the way to Union Square. I listened for an hour to the Comrades and their speeches, and although I wasn't feeling as good as I did when I was an International Banker, at least I knew what I was. That is, I did until I asked—not heckled, mind you, just asked—how the great Stalin had suddenly developed into an opportunist, and was playing "one for you and one for me" with Hitler.

"Trotskyite!" They shouted. "War Monger!" "Capitalist!"

I managed to get away all right, but what good did it do me? Who am I? I'm a man without an ism. I'm an international banker without a bank. I'm an Atheistic, Communist, masochistic Jew, God help me!—L. K. in F. P. A.'s Conning Tower in New York Post.

Sylvia Madiel is chairman of the program which features lighting of Chanukah candles by a group including Violet Gerwitz, Mildred Nisenbaum, Harriet Kwitney, Olga Berger, Paula Gates, Bernice Klein and Zelma Hockman. Miss Madiel will give a reading.

Members and the public are invited to attend.

Louis Kaseff to Wed South Bend Girl

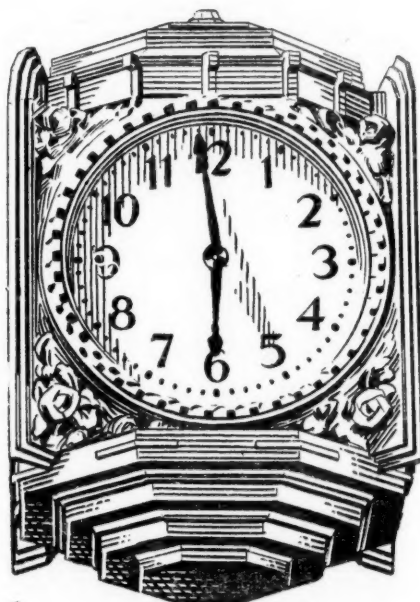

Miss Pauline Plotkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Plotkin of South Bend, has chosen Sunday evening, Dec. 24, as the time for her marriage to Louis Kaseff, son of Mrs. Fannie Kaseff. The ceremony will take place in the Hotel La Salle at South Bend, and will be followed by a dinner in the Bronze Room and a reception for the family and friends. Mrs. Morris Placy will be her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids are to be Miss Harriet Plotkin and Mrs. Harry Marcus. Bernard Kaseff will be his brother's best man. After spending a month in Florida on their wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Indianapolis.

This Year Give the Entire Family . . .

TRUE COOKING CLEANLINESS

MODERN GAS RANGE

They'll Thank You For Years to Come!

NEW ROPER RANGE

As illustrated, this Roper (No. 4120) has an "easy-to-clean" turreted top with lift covers . . . a famous Astogril Roll Out Broiler . . . extra large utensil drawer across the bottom . . . PLUS all the other modern features that save you time, food and fuel.
Special holiday price—$114.50

Your wife knows that the secret of modern cooking cleanliness is waterless cooking and low temperature roasting and baking. Waterless cooking, she will explain, retains the healthful vitamins in food and saves time and work in chasing the greasy steam and splatterings that soil kitchen walls. Low temperature cooking, on the other hand, seals in the delicious juices of vegetables and meats and cuts food shrinkage and fuel costs, thereby saving you money. Be practical this year and give your family a modern GAS Range.

CITIZENS Gas AND COKE UTILITY

* Two rate reductions are saving Indianapolis gas consumers more than $500,000 annually.

Our Film Folk of HOLLYWOOD

—By HELEN ZIGMOND—

HOLLYWOOD—Did you know—
That 25 years ago Blossom Seeley was a vaudeville headliner, pulling down a weekly stipend of $650?

That about the same time Eddie Cantor was playing a duo act with Lee, rating only $175 in his pay envelope?

That on the same bill appeared the two Bakers, Ben and Phil, doing a double for $125 per?

That ten years ago John Garfield, then "Jules," performed in the first cast of Gertrude Berg's "The Goldbergs"?

That Luther Adler, Sylvia Sydney's mister, signed his first actor's contract at the age of 10, and served his apprenticeship with his father, the late Jacob Adler?

Harold Arlen, one of Hollywood's youngest Jewish composers, is the proud recipient of an award from the American Society of Composers and Publishers for the best song of the year—his "Over the Rainbow," written for the "Wizard of Oz."

Charles Boyer, with other entertainers, has been launching air attacks (via the "mike") in Paris . . . will soon "Clipper" back to the U. S. on a propaganda lecture tour in the interests of France.

Like the Ritzes, Jack Benny prefers his horses "across the board." Forced to meet the animals on an equal foot—er, sitting, as the hero of "Buck Benny Rides Again," Benny has a whopping headache . . . not to mention other pains. Before mounting the fearsome beast, he handed a letter to the director "for Mary," his wife—just in case!

Ray of Sunshine: In an effort to eliminate elements which cause discord and racial hatreds, one of the local musicians' unions expects to adopt a plan which will dissolve any organization of musicians that is based on racial creed.

Screenings: Joseph Schildkraut has acquired the rights to the Yiddish opera, "Bar Kochba," and plans to produce it on a local stage. The chapter on Celuloidio in Arthur Kober's tome, "Pardon Me For Pointing," is said to be a rib-tickler. . . . Noel Madison, still in London, relays an English barber's sign, "Hair Raids Inside." Royal trappings: Jack Warner, while in the East, purchased a flivver de luxe, a car fabricated for the Crown Prince of Denmark. That antediluvian epic, "1,000,000 B. C.," will be dubbed in every language in the civilized world except German and Italian . . . no box office? . . . or no civilization? Laren Maazel, the 9-year-old symphony conductor, may be inked on a contract soon. Alfred Newman is trying a novel idea in musical scoring . . . 15whistlers will fill in the harmony for the "Blue Bird" orchestration. The next cinemania for the Three Stooges will be titled, "Good-bye, Mr. Chumps." Wishful thinking: A marquee glitters, "A! Quit on the Western Front."

Most every week 5-year-old Manny Robinson is a keen observer at his father's broadcasts, after which he goes home, arranges the playroom, and re-enacts "Big Town," to the near collapse of the house and its occupants.

Front office at the Burbank plant called a contract player. The maid, answering the phone, wanted to know who was calling. "Warner Brothers," was the reply. Still in the dark, she asked, "Which one?"

GESTAPO GAG

In Gestapo-ridden Heiland, we are reliably informed, the Reichians have slightly altered an age-old expression of theirs, Ach Himmel! . . . Out of respect for the dread Gestapo chieftain, the trembling Teutons now exclaim, Ach Himmler!

DRAMA NOTE

If you want to have the time of your life when you make that winter visit to New York, buy yourself a pair on the aisle for "New Pins and Needles," the garment workers' sizzling satire in words and music on this woozy old world of ours. . . . As barbed, crisp and funny as the previous editions, the newest production by the pins-and-needlers is still absolute tops in adult musical entertainment along the main stem . . . The best of the old numbers, including the Red Mikado and the Five Little Angels of Peace, have been retained and revised to square with the latest headlines of the day. . . . The Angels, for example, were formerly four, Hitler, Mussolini, Chamberlain and Hirohito. . . . They have sprouted a new pair of wings, Joe Stalin's. . . . An added, and unscheduled attraction which may or may not be repeated, was a glimpse of Dave Dubinsky, I. L. G. W. U. prexy, anklung down the aisle with a satisfied grin on his amiable face. . . . Probably, as one critic remarked to his companion, counting the pins and needles in the house.

MISH-MASH

Credit your correspondent with another fulfilled prediction. . . . Shortly after George Backer bought the N. Y. Post, Peters predicted that Rollin Kirby, the cartoonist, and Heywood Broun, the columnists, would soon be added to the Post staff. . . . Kirby joined the paper three weeks later. . . . Now Broun's addition to the staff has been announced, as of Dec. 15. . . . All Backer needs now to complete that famous literary galaxy of the old New York World is Frank Sullivan and Alec Woolcott, since F. P. A., Samuel Chotzinoff, Kirby, and Broun are already in the fold. . . . Backer is swiftly re-creating the literary charm and spirit of one of New York's greatest newspapers. . . . Running through the files the other day we came across an age-worn clip reporting that James N. Rosenberg, J. D. C. leader and prominent attorney, was exhibiting his paintings at the Ehrlich Galleries. . . . His work has been praised by such experts as Louis Untermeyer and Rockwell Kent. . . . Wonder whether he's had time lately to continue riding the hobby. . . .

The Jewish Community Center Association acknowledges with much appreciation contributions to the memorial fund in memory of Philip Adler, Sr. from Mr. and Mrs. Melville S. Cohen, and in memory of Mrs. Rosa Hene from Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kiser.

BENJAMIN J. COHEN
the "Middletown" of the Lynds' famous book. He went to high school in Muncie, the University of Chicago, the University of Chicago law school, where he hung up a still existing scholastic record, and to the Harvard law school, where he did post-graduate work and was taken under the wing of Felix Frankfurter. He had a year or two as an attorney at the shipping board during the war, another year or two abroad as counsel for the Zionists, and then a long experience as a lawyer's lawyer, writing briefs in ultra-difficult cases, in New York.

He was a successful man, as prosperous as he desired to be, when the New Deal began. One of his intellectual games, however, had been to draft an American version of the British companies act, and so, when Ray Moley asked Felix Frankfurter for help on the securities act, Frankfurter sent Cohen to Washington. He soon found a place in the administration, as lawyer in the PWA, having been deeply interested in the economics of public works.

From the PWA he moved on to his present official position, as counsel to the national power policy committee.

Meanwhile, he and his team-mate moved upward in the New Deal world to their present unofficial positions as handymen for the President. Yet even now, he seems a little out of place in the bustling Washington world, and, when the New Deal ends, he will return to his quiet apartment and his books.

The Editor's Chair:

In recalling the men in Jewish life whom I like best, it seems to me that they can be classed as the ones who are most modest. If there is anyone that a newspaper man hates, it's the person who seeks publicity. Of course, all news-paper men realize that it is human to want the admiration of fellow beings, but in almost every case, where a person seeks publicity, he does not deserve it.

The shams, tricks, and devices people will use to get their names in print. Their tactics are so obvious. Invariably they'll tell you that they're not seeking publicity for themselves—it's for the cause. No, of course not.

On the other hand, there are those who go about their given tasks, do their job, and seek no praise from anyone. Often as not, if praise is forthcoming, they are agreeably surprised.

I'm like those of the first class. Yet I know how distasteful to others it is to always be seeking praise and publicity, so that I try as hard as I possibly can to seem not to want to be commended. Truthfully, I haven't reached the stage where I can normally ignore opportunities for praise, but I really am trying to school myself so that maybe in the future I'll be like those of the second class.

The Indiana Jewish Chronicle, both editorially and in readers' comments, has taken to task the "wealthy" Jews because of their alleged indifference to Jewish problems. On the other hand, this paper has often called down the men of influence in the community because they attempt to usurp authority in Jewish life and claim too much prerogative. In other words, one paper says the influential Jewish people are not concerned with Jewish affairs, and the other says they are too much concerned with Jewish affairs.

Obviously, both papers cannot be right.

Regens To Broadcast Chanukah Program

The Regen Baking Company has announced a 15-minute Chanukah program, consisting of musical presentations by Cantor Myro Glass and his choir, accompanied by Mrs. Leon Adler.

A series of Jewish programs presented from time to time is planned, depending on public acceptance, it was said.

Editorial Page

J. D. C. Appointments Amusing

THOSE acquainted with the inner-workings of national Jewish organizations must be amused by the widening by the Joint Distribution Committee of its board of directors to include almost everybody with a title of any kind.

For the past few months, the J. D. C. has been under-fire by a group, in the forefront of which has been The American Jewish Congress, which has demanded that the J. D. C. widen the representation on its executive and other boards to include all phases of Jewish thought. In the reply, which was made public only last week, the J. D. C. refused the request.

Yet the twenty-fifth anniversary meeting of the J. D. C. Saturday and Sunday in Chicago, appended a long string of directors, including Eddie Cantor and Paul Muni, to its already-large governing body.

The J. D. C. appointed these men to the board. These men were not elected by anyone. And therein lies an editorial all its own.

Current Comment

Jewish Knights of the road a problem, says D. H. White, editor of The Jewish Herald Voice, of Houston, Tex.—Of particular importance to the Houston community, the Jewish community, is a definite stand on the problem of the wandering lad who professes his Jewishness and expects to be treated different than the average knight of the road. His story is a bit more touching. He doesn't want to eat the "treaf" that is given him at this and that place. He places a "yamelka" on his head when he enters a synagogue. He wants consideration, demands consideration and gets downright ugly when he doesn't get his consideration.

We are a soft people. Our hearts are touched quite easily by the need and the want of those less fortunate. We give. We have been educated to give as have our fathers before us. It is hard to resist the call for "ztoka." But to give in this case is to encourage the perpetuation of an underground system which lives off the fat of the land. It is not a productive system. It is not a good venture in moral and spiritual regeneration. It must be stopped.

The jungles of Africa have their systems of communication. The hobo jungles of America have theirs. The word is rapidly taken from coast to coast, from Gulf to Canadian Border. Houston is easy. This man gives, that man gives, this synagogue gives, this business gives. And the drifters set their charts by Houston or by any locality which is placed in the same category. And the march is on. Giving encourages this march. Generosity is conducive to an augmented army.

Our Jewish lads, or should I say, our knights of Jewish persuasion find it a lot easier than the others. Their appeal is made on the basis of religion and the synagogues have been giving to all those coming in. There is a limit to giving, there is a limit to encouragement. As I have pointed out, the problem is more fundamental than one of merely giving. There needs to be a social study made, a helping hand given to these lads of the open road. But this can only be done in the city from which these men come, not on the open road.

Junior Hadassah's decision to join American Youth Congress hailed by Jewish Ledger of Buffalo.—The action of Junior Hadassah in voting at its annual convention in Baltimore last Saturday to affiliate with the American Youth Congress is commendable. Protesting against the tendency in some circles to label this American young people's group of progressives a Communist organization, the young women of Junior Hadassah gave the move to affiliate their support with the huge vote of almost a thousand delegates, with only twelve dissenting.

The words in which the resolution was couched bear careful study and comment as they are indicative of the mental atmosphere of this large group of young Zionists, who are at the same time concerned with pressing problems right here in America:

"Whereas, we, the members of Junior Hadassah desire to strengthen and advance the principles and practices of democracy, which are not only the foundation stone of our own American Government, but the basic teaching of Judaism and the essence of Zionism, and

"Whereas we recognize that to safeguard and spread democracy faced with the menace of totalitarian creeds that ruthlessly annihilate human rights, we must take an articulate and active part in organized efforts that are dedicated to the preservation of democratic liberties, and

"Whereas the American Youth Congress has for its aim the unity of all American youth, regardless of race, religion or creed, for the purpose of common deliberation and action on all problems facing youth in a democracy, in order to preserve democracy as a living force,

"Be it resolved that Junior Hadassah nationally become a coordinating organization of the American Youth Congress to study youth problems, and be it further resolved that it participate in the effective solution of such problems when the national board deems action advisable."

The 20,000 girls of Junior Hadassah are to be congratulated on the awareness of the pressing problems facing youth in America today and their realization of the fact that the welfare not only of their home country here but their Zionist homeland across the seas depends upon the preservation of democracy everywhere, and its restoration or inception where it has not yet become established.

Plans for religious education in public schools attacked by Rabbi Louis I. Newman.—The "New York Herald-Tribune" on Sunday, Nov. 19, reports that "religious training in schools is being seriously considered by the city." "The board of education is seriously considering the introduction of religious instruction in the city's public schools," says the article, "a practice zealously guarded against throughout the schools 100 years in order to safeguard the American tradition of the separation of church and state. The school board has been subjected to unusual pressure in recent months by members of religious denominations, both Protestant and Roman Catholic, who want to see religious training introduced in the schools. These persons last May obtained from the State Board of Regents an opinion which would permit the school board to adopt some plan to release children from their regular classes during school hours and send them to outside institutions for religious instruction." Thus it appears that the advocates of the "release plan" are continuing their propaganda, and that they may win out. I believe with multitudes of others that it will be deplorable if the public school system is thus interfered with, in the name of sectarian religious training. To be sure, we Jews can make good use of the program for the intensification of the instruction of our boys and girls; moreover, we have fine buildings in which to conduct this education. But the plan will open the door to many ill's, and will, I think, mark a structural change in the nature of American democracy. Divisiveness will set in; group will be set off against group; and the religious issue will be thrust into public education. Americans interested in religion, but also in the preservation of our liberalism, should speak up in protest before it is too late.

SHOTS ABOUT BIG PEOPLE

Into thousands of Indianapolis homes this week went the appeal of the Marion County Tuberculosis Association. Occupying prominent positions on the letterhead were Louis J. Borinstein, Rabbi Morris M. Feuerlicht, Mrs. Mortimer Furscott and Dr. Edgar F. Kiser, the last two of whom are members of the board of directors.

Dignified Rabbi David Jacobsen, former assistant rabbi at Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, and a native of Indianapolis, several years ago accepted a position as associate rabbi with Dr. Ephraim Frisch in San Antonio's Reform Congregation. News of Rabbi Jacobsen's arrival here in flashes. The latest—his series of radio book reviews at 5 p. m., Mondays, over Station WOAI.

Indefatigable Hadassah worker, business-like Mrs. J. A. Goodman, last week addressed the Zionist-Hadassah convention held annually in Texas for that section of the country as part of her extended southern speaking tour. Coupling Mrs. Goodman with Dr. Kurt Blumenfeld, both of whom were guest speakers, the Jewish Herald-Voice of Houston termed the talks "inspiring."

Considered one of the city's finest young business men, William L. Schloss, president of the Morris Plan Bank announced this week leasing of the ground floor, balcony and space on the second floor of the Railway Exchange Building, 108 E. Washington St. Mr. Schloss is a member of the Board of Directors of the Jewish Welfare Fund.

Hard-working, quick-witted Norman Isaacs, who rose from reporter to managing editor of The Indianapolis Times in a few short years, Tuesday made the front page of his own paper. Norman is shown with Lum and Abner, radio and screen stars, whom he persuaded to take part in a short broadcast for The Times Clothe-a-Child appeal.

Abraham Goldberg, 74, Dies After Short Illness

Abraham Greenberg, 74, 1811 College avenue, a resident of Indianapolis for the past 36 years, died Tuesday, Dec. 5, in the Methodist Hospital after a brief illness.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Jennie Greenberg; two sons, Isadore Greenberg of Indianapolis and Henry Greenberg of Boston; three daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Kline, Mrs. Abe Bartick, and Mrs. Norton Fishbein, all of Indianapolis.

Funeral services were held at the Aaron-Ruben Funeral Home on Wednesday, with Rabbi Elias Charry and Cantor Myro Glass officiating. Burial was at the Shara Tefilla cemetery.
